Iridium

Extreme 9575 PTT (Push-to-Talk)

Extreme 9575 PTT is a satellite phone with the push-to-talk radio function integrated, to communicate across the globe, in multiple environments and settings, with other Iridium PTT telephones present within a group, called Talkgroup.

With the simple push of the side button, this solution ensures immediate communication with one or more PTT telephones in any area and without the aid of any land infrastructure.

The definition of the Talkgroup takes place via the PTT command center web portal, where it is possible to insert the various PTT telephones within the group and establish the regions/service areas in which operate. These areas can be located world-wide and are implemented instantaneously. A single Iridium 9575 PTT phone can be assigned up to 15 different areas of service.
